

THE ENCLAVES

A RITZ-CARLTON RESERVE RESIDENCE

LAS MANITAS

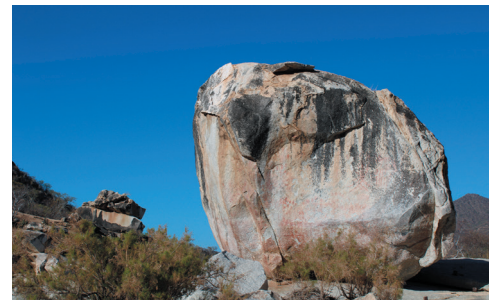

Only around a 2 hour-drive away from the Reserve, this unique site is located, it is time to awake your exploration sense.

Along the curvy landscape courtesy of the mountain streams, stands out an impressive-sized stone called Piedra Pericué, after the indigenous people who lived in Baja California Sur.

Milagros, a member of the family who takes care of the area welcomes any explorer with a smile on her face, and as the area is very rural, bringing gifts to the family is well accepted.

This place best known as Las Manitas due to the main patterns shown on the gigantic rock, the place is surrounded by mystery, there is still very little information about this site, however, this, does not make the experience less interesting. The Heritage Site, provides a close look to the art expression of the Baja ancestors.

There are more than 300 discovered sites around Baja Sur where cave paintings are located, the ones located here, exhibit different sizes of handprints, long lines up to 6.5 ft. and various other shapes.

The paintings represented here, allude the sense of community and environment surrounding the Pericués, known as Edues or Coras as well.

Baja California Sur is definitely a trustworthy provider of adventures, contact us to provide more details about this amazing experience.
